What the investor needs to know	Current answer
Purpose	Prove the platform, curriculum, characters, family workflows and center operations with one real 40-child pilot before Phase 2 expansion.
Team	Two full-time adults; individual part-time classroom shifts, relief, food service and substitutes. Four floor adults is conditional on the approved age mix and rooms.
Recurring cost	$477,066.02 per year before building payments; this continues after year one.
Platform delivery	$95,852.20 Year 1: $57,000.00 completion; $20,400.00 one-time assurance; $18,452.20 annual service. Reusable-code audit, fixed-scope quote and working acceptance required.
One-time / contingency	$146,964.00 one-time; $22,044.60 contingency (15% of one-time). One-month cash floor: $39,755.50.
Building	Owner-specified $140,000 refinance-enabling need. Payoff, closing costs, lender terms and new payment are unknown. The old $700,000 placeholder is removed.
Revenue test	Historical $910/month, 96% collection, not a signed current price. Forty full-year places produce $419,328.00 in this illustrative case.
Repayment reality	At that historical price, year-two operating margin is -$57,738.02 before building/debt. Break-even realized tuition is $1,036.37 per child/month before those payments.
Funding estimate	$423,849.52 = $140,000 refinance need + peak modeled deficit + contingency + one-month floor. Cost estimate only; not a financeable loan ask.
Terms	No permanent equity. Debt service only from cash after recurring operations and the actual building payment; lender rate, term, collateral and guarantees require an offer.
Deferred	National rollout, full animated season, bulk family tablets and unsigned licensing income are Phase 2.

Investor decision: first verify pricing, licensed age/room capacity, payroll, bills, insurance and the building statement. Then release against accepted product, safety, security and cash gates. The digital cost explorer and 311-line CSV expose every priced row:
